

Figure S12. The bars show the number of core essential genes shared between the sub-clades marked with dark gray circles. The genes that are shared at least in 80% of the genomes in a sub-clade are considered core essential.